

TASTY— Putting the product of their common skill to the test are Mrs. Edward Haug (left), and Mrs. John Edwards. According to the ladies, making apple butter is an all-day job—the butter being stirred constantly until just the right consistency.

PROOF— Whether it's pudding or apple butter the proof is in the eating. Louis Hester is busy as he watches his mother, Mrs. James Hester, and her sister church-women cooking-down the big pots of apples. The ladies said they stir $1.75 in silver coins in each kettle to keep the contents from sticking. However, they fish out the coins before the butter is put on sale.

—Post-Gazette Photos by James G. Klingensmith.